Claude Meetings just changed meeting notes

Anthropic launched it this week: turn workplace discussions into plans and tasks.

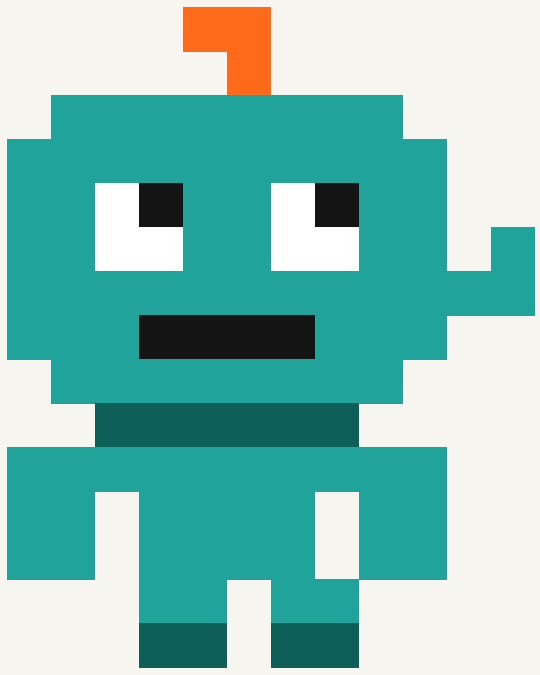

The old way

Someone takes notes. Half the action items live in their head. The follow-up email goes out two days late, and nobody owns the tasks.

The new way

The discussion itself becomes the plan. Decisions, owners and next steps come out of the meeting instead of being rebuilt from memory afterwards.

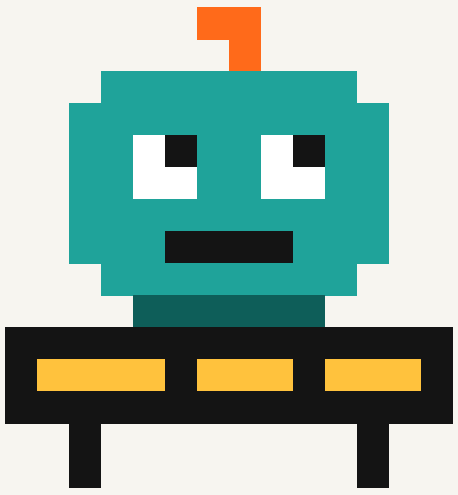

How I'd use it

01 Discovery call with a client

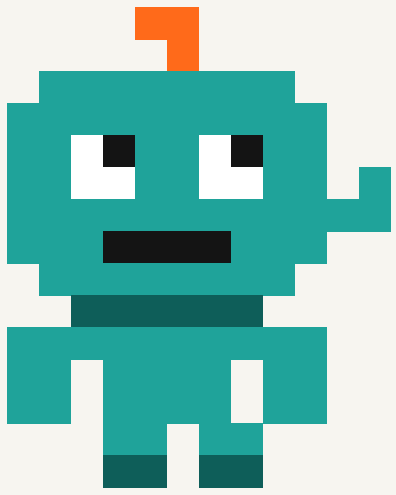

02 Pull out the problem and the ask

03 Turn it into a scoped task list

04 Send the proposal the same day

Before you trust it
